The Janus Factor

When ex-RAF Tornado Pilot, Tom Speed, decides that he has been vegetating for too long he sets out to see if he can discover something on which to focus his empty life. He makes contact with his old Commanding Officer who offers him the chance to assist with a project that he has been contracted to complete.

The loose brief that Tom is given throws him into a complex web of deception where no one is quite what they seem and as he becomes embroiled with the worlds of international aviation, high finance, global warming and gold mining he learns of The Janus Factor.

He gets deeper into his mission and exposes a situation that tests his resolve as he grows into a reluctant hero and realises that someone wants him dead.

He discovers that everyone he deals with seems to have an alternative agenda and that he can trust no one. An inherent ability to see inconsistencies is his only weapon to help him get to the bottom of the life threatening situation into which he is gradually drawn.
